Proper Planting Depth for Bulbs

The chart above indicates successful planting practice in this area. It assumes good drainage and deep preparation of soil. Tulips should last 5 years and narcissus and many of the smaller bulbs at least 10 years. In original planting, prepare the soil at least 12 inches deep, mixing in a bushel of peat moss and a pound of bone meal to every 10 or 12 square feet. In the spring, use a good bulb fertilizer, 1 pound to 25 square feet just as the shoots are coming through the ground. As the blooms go by, cut them to prevent bulb exhausting seed formation. After the blooms are gone, interplant with annuals to keep color in the garden all summer. Do not disturb the bulb foliage at any time. Apply fertilizer again at the same rate at this time. The longer the bulb foliage stays fresh and green, the greater will be your rewards the following spring. Bone meal should be applied to established bulb beds early every fall, 4 pounds per 100 square feet.

FORCING BULBS

Don't be without your own spring flowers in the winter! Many of these bulbs force quite easily under home conditions. The best varieties for this purpose are starred (*). The bulbs should be potted early in the fall, 3 to 5 bulbs per 5-inch clay pot. Under forcing conditions they will stand this crowding. The pots may be placed in a cold cellar, under the stairs of the hatchway, or in a trench outdoors. They must be dark, cool, and moist, at this time. When the roots begin to come through the bottom of the pot, (usually by early January), they may be brought into more heat: a cool sunporch is ideal. Growth is rapid from this point on. By February, you should be enjoying fresh spring flowers in your own living room.

AIR LAYERING

AIR LAYERING is an ancient method of plant propagation developed by the Chinese. The method—very roughly—is to strip a ring of bark about $\frac{1}{4}$ " wide from around a branch of the shrub being worked on. Pack moist sphagnum moss tightly around the stripped area, bind it in place, and cover the moss to prevent its drying out. Later, when roots appear in the moss, the branch can be cut off just below the rooted area and the new plant set out in soil. We offer sphagnum moss for 25¢ a bag. Stop by and learn more of this propagating technique.

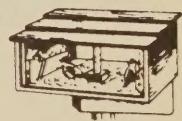

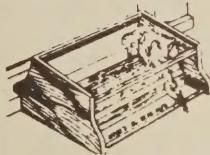

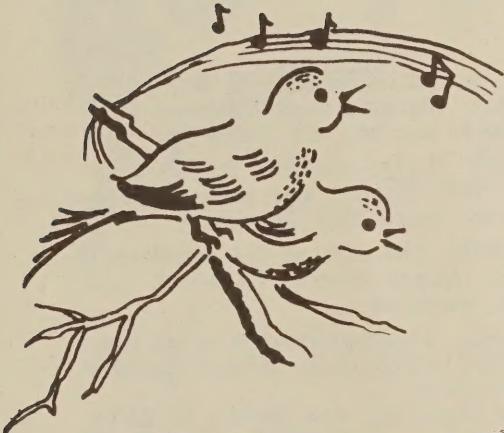

KRILLIUM

KRILLIUM SOIL CONDITIONER. One of the 200 or more soil conditioners offered last year, and the only one we recommend for home use. It is a dry powder. It must be worked into the soil to a depth of 3 to 6 inches. It is for correction of clay soil only. Used properly, its action is amazing.

One pound, $1.39, corrects 10 sq. ft. clay soil 6 inches deep.

5-lb., $4.95, corrects 50 sq. ft. clay soil 6 inches deep.
